FOLLOWS LA GRIPPE

And pneumonia is often a quick agent of death. The advance of pneumonia is insidious, stealthy; it is upon you before you know it, usually just about the time you think you are cured of the grippe or a bad cold.

Foley's Honey and Tar prevents pneumonia.

A slight draught, a trifling irregularity in the warming of your home, a little overexertion-such seemingly simple things induce pneumonia in the system weakened by la grippe.

Foley's Honey and Tar eradicates the weak spots. Pneumonia at any time is greatly to be feared. Pneumonia that follows la grippe is almost always fatal.

Pneumonia is now a prevalent disease and many who apparently were cured of la grippe are dying from its insidious follower, pneumonia.

Pneumonia may follow la grippe but pneumonia cannot follow Foley's Honey and Tar.

Here is something we know from fifteen years experience: FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR will cure la grippe in any stage so effectually that neither pneumonia nor any other disease of throat and lungs can find a loophole anywhere in the system. A few doses will ward off la grippe if taken in time. FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR is unconditionally guaranteed to do these things. Your money will be returned if it does not.

NOTE-Your doctor will tell you this: Pneumonia may follow any sort of cold, especially just now. This is a pneumonia season, when all the conditions are right for its contraction. Pneumonia follows whooping cough, measles and other similar diseases in children and is almost necessarily fatal in such cases. "Measle-pneumonia" is the doctor's dread.

NOTE THIS FACT. The ordinary muriate of ammonia cough mixtures given by doctors in these cases are ineffectual and many little lives are lost by the prejudice of physicians in favor of an antiquated remedy. Many doctors have been divested of prejudice by seeing the wonderful results of FOLEY'S NONEY AND TAR in saving children's lives. It cures the cause and prewents the result. It is guaranteed.

Dr. J. C. Bishop of Agnew, Mich., writes: "I have used Foley's Honey and Tar in three very severe cases of pneumonia the past month, with splendid

EDWARD BECKER BUYS THE ST. LOUIS CLUB

Said to Have Paid $40,000 for the Property.

The Strong Cleveland Team to Play in the Mound City.

Frank De Hans Robison Interested in the New Organization-Other Sporting News.

St. Louis, March 18.-Edward C. Becker has bought the St. Louis Baseball Club. This means more than appears on the surface, as it carries with it the knowledge that the Cleveland baseball team will be transferred to this city and once more the national game will draw its tens of thousands to Sportsmen's Park. The sale was onsummated yesterday, negotiations which began Thursday being suspended to illow Becker to open communication with the League magnates. When the creditors assembled Frank Tate, manager of the Columbia Theatre, and Becker were both present. Becker alone was invited into the conference. After ten minutes Becker left the room hurriedly and Messrs. Muench and Rowell retired to a private office with stenographer to draw up a bill of sale. The speed with which Becker's terms vere accepted was due to a telegram received by Rowell from John L. Rogers in reply to the one sent on Thursday. Rogers said the League was not concerned about prominent St. Louis business men and would recognize no one except Becker or Robison. After the papers were signed Becker wrote out a check for the amount. Then he departed. The creditors hantered him for season tickets, but he shrugged his shoulders and said he did not have any idea of managing a ball team. The price paid is understood to have been $40,000. Frank Tate offered the creditors $35,000 in cash for the property they had bought for $33,000. He also offered to pay up the League dues of $1,153 and the Wilkesbarre and Chicago claims, amounting to $1,750. In all Tate offered $37,963 for the club.

Yesterday afternoon the American Baseball and Athletic Exhibition Company filed ball and Athletic Exhibition Company filed articles of incorporation with the recorder of deeds. The capital stock is $100,000, one-half paid up. There are 1,000 shares, at $100 per share. The stockholders and the number of shares each has are as follows: Edward C, Becker, 296, Guy P, Billon, 1; John H, Blessing, 1; Samuel G, Payne, 1; William G, Schofield I, Becker is the recent purchaser of the club. Blessing is a member of the firm of Gaylord, Blessing & Co, Messrs, Billon and Payne are employes of that firm, and Schofield is all and Athletic Exhibition Company filed Blessing & Co., Messrs. Billon and Payne are employes of that firm, and Schofield is a young lawyer in the office of Attorney John H. Overall. It is generally understood that Robison holds 49 per cent of the stock now in Becker's name. All he gives in exchange for this is his team of ball players. But it is a championship team and will bring great baseball glory once again to Sportsmen's Park. William Kinnerk, attorney for Chris Von der Ahe, was seen. When told that Messrs, Becker and Robison had bought the St. Louis and Robison had bought the St. Louis and Robison had bought the St. Louis Club from the creditors' syndicate he said:

"Every lover of baseball will be glad to see the Cleveland Club in St. Louis. We have not made up our minds about filing an appeal bond, which would have the ef-fect of setting aside this morning's pro-ceedings. We will push our appeal, how-ever. If the bonds pay out in full Von-der Abe will results about $6,000 out of the control of the setting about $6,000 out of der Abe will realize about $6,000 out of the sale. It is said Becker telegraphed over all the country asking the League men if they would stand by him in case be bought the

tion Story a Myth. Oxford, Md., March 18.-A prominent oyster dealer, who has been a tonger, a scraper, and a dredger and is thoroughly well acquainted with every oyster ground in the Choptank River and adjacent wa-ters, and whose intelligent observation and practical experience runs through thirty years and more, says:

years and more, says:

"Newspaper correspondents are making misleading statements about the oysters in the deep water of the Choptank and Miles rivers, or any other Chesapeake river, being winter-killed. What the fishermen are saying about oysters bein asphyxiated, or suffocated, because ice covers the surface of the water, is a myth, if not a superstition. Those that have perished have been tion. Those that have perished have been killed by the cold, and have not died for want of air. When a freeze, such as we have had this winter, begins on the water, many oysters on the flats and shallow bars are caught in the ice and are frozen to death. When the ice breaks up and comes ashore in pieces many of these dead oys-ters, caught in the ice while making, come with it. This is all the harm the surface ice formation does to the oysters, and it is comparatively insignificant.

"Oysters, when out of the water and exposed to the air, are as susceptible to frost as sweet potato or tomato foliage is. They will freeze at a higher temperature than meats, eggs and most vegetables. The past winter oysters froze in dry cellars, even when covered with bagging, when unpro-tected potatoes, turnips and parsnips did not. If the surface ice is a foot thick oys-ters on the bottom in six foot water are safe all winter, if the freeze lasts so long. But oysters get poor during a freeze. The food supply is scant, because the currents that transport it are sluggish, or still, and the upland supply, brought down by the fresh water rivers, is cut off. Possibly, if the freeze continued a great while, the cysters might starve to death. If the cysermen and fishermen who make these re ports have found a considerable number of dead oysters in deep water, it is more plausible that they died from starvation than from suffication. Who says that oys-ters perished from lack of air last winter at depths of twenty and thirty feet is telling ghost story.

These same people will gravely tell you that many thousands of bushels of oysters that many thousands of bushels of oysters were smothered last winter by the ice sinking and covering them up. Did the ice sink it would certainly kill the oysters. These people do actually believe that field ice sinks, notwithstanding it cannot sink, because its specific gravity is so much less than that of water. They cannot account for its rapid disappearance in any other way, and, therefore, it can's as its time has come. So counting the oysters that suffocuted for want of air during the freeze and those smothered by sinking ice freeze and those smothered by sinking ice when the freeze broke, it would seem that the oyster crop is as badly winter-killed as the peach crop. In all this stuff there is a laugh and not an alarm. The fact is, these oystermen and fishermen 'reporters' had not examined oyster grounds in water 20 or 30 feet deep or any other depth, when they reported their observations. Just before the ice break began, while the freeze was on its last legs, as it were, they would gather together about a sunny bank or cance landing and comfort their pessimistie souls and add another chapter to the book of the 'Oystermen's Woes' by reach-ing the mounful conclusion that most of the oysters had been suffocated by the ice while affoat and others smothered by ice when it sunk. That is all there is in it.

The French Simpleton.

M. Calino, the popular French simple ton, who performs in the humorous littra-ture of French much the same function that the traditional Paddy does in English literature, has been made the subject of a grave study, in which his inno-cent stupdities are carefully analyzed. He is nothing more or less than a convenient personification of a type of the harmess blunderer and complacent lackwit found in all ages and countries. In France his savings reflect, however, romething of the picturesqueness which is characteristic of the nation.

Later in life Calino delivered himself of the following bit of wisdom:

Central American Characters.

I am quite well acquainted with all the leading figures in this last Central American imbroglio," remarked a former resident of Salvador, "and without exception they are personally good fellows. That is characteristic of their educated classes.

The girls heard an unguarded giggle from up the hall, and knew their tormen-tors were hidden in the shadows there. "I tell you what we'll do," cried one, "we'll take them in." And take them in they did, and are holding them yet, to the chagrin of the owners of those flasks, who are begging in vain for a return of their property.

The next time they may not be so ready to leave their things lying about so pro miscuously, for the girls say they mak lovely souvenirs.
